

Company Overview

Founded in 2008, ProFeds specializes in providing educational-based retirement training services for the U.S. federal government workforce worldwide. Federal agencies partner with ProFeds to provide financial-based retirement training to their employees in accordance with the Office of Personnel Management's financial literacy initiative.

Core Competencies

The ProFeds training team helps federal employees to understand the key decisions they will make for their federal benefits. Their instructors carry a deep understanding of the complexities of the benefits and how to simplify them.

This level of knowledge allows the instructors to help the employees better understand how their benefits change in retirement so employees can make smart financial decisions that provide the greatest long-term benefit to them and their families.

Federal agencies hosting this training enjoy:

- Customizable sessions to suit special audiences (i.e. Law Enforcement)
- A simple sign-up process that makes administering this training easy
- Professional promotional materials for maximum employee participation
- Both in-person and virtual sessions are available

Federal employees attending this training enjoy:

- Energetic speakers bring lively conversation and candid perspective
- Complex topics are broken down into clear language with examples
- All slides are provided in a workbook with step-by-step action items
- One-on-one assistance to review their specific retirement scenario
